2013 meeting dates: September 16, October 21, November 18

Business Report

At August’s meeting we went through the Granitecon jobs checklist to see where we needed help. As of now, we still need someone to help out at the entry table so those working it (Ed Mele and I) can get out and look around once in a while. We also need plenty of volunteers to show up at the Elks Club at 7 AM the day of the show to set up the hall. Those who do get their first five entries paid for by the club. Sure seems like those tables get heavier every year!

We still have trophy packs to sell. Mac sent a list of what he has so far and it is impressive! I go to pick up the trophies today. I will bring the “specials” to the meeting. So please get out there and sell trophy packs! If you sold one to someone last year, see if you can sell them one again this year. I know that Hobby Emporium is sponsoring the Best of Show and the Sliney awards this year. Mac reports that Hobbies With A Twist in Concord is also sponsoring for us.

Chuck has the Squadron gift certificate and has checked with the table vendor and the Elks to make sure things are all on track. We need someone to take the “breadboard sign” from Guy at this month’s meeting because he will be away for work the weekend of the contest and we need the sign to set up outside the Elks to advertise the show.

We had a new prospective member visit us at the August meeting. Peter Mooney lives in Nashua and builds aircraft models, with a focus on Century Series fighters. Ne said he will definitely be back.

Guy told of his visit to the Concord Model Railroad Show. Since he is expanding his horizons to a new railroad ( he has built everything his current railroad choice had) he was looking for inspiration. He had a friend there selling built models from the Aircraft museum in Manchester. On this note we passed to Ed Mele, who went to the model auction the museum itself held, and reported they were selling some good looking models for the same price as some worse ones. He said none of the builds were of very high quality. as Tony and I said the month before, we offered! He did say that their old P-51 canopy was in pretty good shape after being used as a sled for years and years... Paul Lessard also went to the Concord show and sold some of his surplus railroad gear at 50% off retail and sold 60% of what he was attempting to liquidate.

Melinda Johnston is recovering nicely from her recent surgery. Hopefully she will be back with us soon. I wonder if Mac is beside her bed in the hospital working on projects? :-)

This month we have to go through the old Granitecon check list one last time to make sure every job is covered. We also need as many members as possible to show up to help with set up and to stay to tear down the hall afterwards. If you have donations for the raffle and can't make the show, Mac will take them off your hands. Kits may be opened , but complete and not started, please! Mac has also sent out the "beg" letters seeking corporate donations for the raffle. Pete will be able to join us for the show and will once again MC the event and run the raffle.

Don't forget PATCON this Sunday, September 15th!

See you Monday!
